Vincent Plarre joins the planning department at artlogic Düsseldorf

Vincent Plarre joins the team of artlogic Staffpool GmbH in project management.

Vincent's journey to becoming a project manager began with his training as an event manager on the Reeperbahn in Hamburg. There, he gained experience in planning, supervising, and executing party events. After his training, he worked at a sailing club, organizing events in a fixed venue. His professional journey then took him through various industries, including retail and sales.

"During my application as a stagehand, I became aware of the open position as a project manager, as I had already worked as an event manager," explains Vincent. "After discussing the position, I decided to take on this exciting challenge."

In his free time, Vincent dedicates himself to his passion for fishing and plays the guitar.

What Vincent particularly appreciates about his work is the opportunity to collaborate with an international team to realize productions across borders. "I've always liked the relaxed atmosphere in the event industry, whether it's B2B or B2C. There are always exciting projects, so it never gets boring," he says.

artlogic warmly welcomes Vincent to the team and looks forward to working together and his contributions to realizing future projects.
